There is one way that stands above all others as the simplest way to build an audience of responsive and loyal listeners.

A path that removes the burden of constant content creation, places you at the forefront of a brand, and harness the power of experts and their audiences.

The path is an interview-based podcast, but how can you get started finding and booking guests for your podcast?

In the first lesson, we go in-depth on the essential steps necessary to book engaging interview guests for your podcast. From tips to finding guests, to crafting your pitch to increase the odds of getting a yes, and all the way to tools you can use to make the process simple and effective.

Who do you think are the greatest Hoosiers of all time?

SUBMIT YOUR VOTE

Accurately? You don't. It's impossible.

You simply do your best, and remember two things ...

1. Any "greatest players" list for any team or league is the first word in a conversation, not the last.
2. The primary goal should be to celebrate the legacies of every player included, even those honorably mentioned, while educating younger fans on the greatness of players from past generations.

That's what we've tried to do.

Our goal for this project is not to have you say, "Wow, these Assembly Call guys figured

What is the best way to track the success and progress of your students as they move through the LMS? What improvements are coming?

What are your best practices to keep the engagement and excitement of students in my courses and programs?

For my free members I offer monthly webinars and would like to set them up in my LMS like Digital Commerce Institute does with its Case Studies.

Is it possible to get some guidance on how to put that together?

Can we send out announcements through the LMS? Say for announcing a webinar?

How do I convert PowerPoint slides into the LMS?

What is the best screen capture software?

I'm creating an audio-only, free course as a lead magnet for my podcast, as featured on some recent episodes of the Showrunner.

What are the best practices on Rainmaker for using the LMS for an audio-only course, and what's the best way to drip content via email to people over a period of time? Is there also a way for people to get all the content immediately, if they want to binge on it?

My course is designed to teach people how to utilize their practice management software to go fully paperless with their medical records. Most veterinary hospitals are still retaining some form of paper records despite the capabilities of the software they already own.

What are your suggestions for the best format of the course content? Are slides still OK? I have the ability to do quality video but it is time consuming. Audio files? Still photos? Is there any statistical data on course popularity vs format?

Will you be integrating [3rd party product] soon?

How could I set things up so that multiple learners can log in at the same time from the same corporate customer?
